

EV Rev Privacy Policy

Last updated: 6 October 2026

EV Rev ("the app") is made by pozApps (Paul Miller), Belfast, United Kingdom. This policy explains what the app does with your information. In short: we do not collect, store or share any personal data.

- Information we collect

None. EV Rev has no accounts, no sign-in, no analytics, no advertising and no third-party tracking. We do not receive any data from your device.

- Location

With your permission, the app reads your device's location while it is in use. It uses this only to work out your speed, which drives the speedometer, rev counter and engine sound. Location data is processed on your device in real time, is not saved, and is never sent to us or to anyone else. You can turn location off in iOS Settings at any time; the app then offers a demo mode with a manual speed slider.

- Motion data

The app may use your device's motion sensors to make the engine sound react more quickly when you accelerate. This data stays on your device and is not stored or shared.

- Purchases

EV Rev is free to download and offers a one-time in-app purchase to unlock all engine sounds. Payments are handled entirely by Apple through the App Store. We never see your payment details. Apple tells the app whether the purchase has been made so that the sounds can be unlocked, and "Restore Purchases" uses the same Apple service.

- CarPlay, Lock Screen and Live Activities

If you use CarPlay, the app shows a list of sounds and plays audio through your car's speakers. The Lock Screen and Dynamic Island Live Activity shows the current sound and speed. Both use only data already on your device and send nothing elsewhere.

- Children

The app is rated 4+ and does not knowingly collect information from anyone, including children.

- Safety

EV Rev is for entertainment. Its gauges are not a substitute for your vehicle's own instruments. Always obey speed limits and never operate your phone while driving.

- Changes to this policy

If the app's data practices ever change, this policy will be updated and the date above revised.

- Contact

Questions about this policy: studio@webdesignbelfast.net